Thank You . . .

The 1967 WAYAKO is complete. The preceding 159 pages are the combined efforts of over thirty people on our staff. I want to take this opportunity as editor-in-chief to thank them all.

First and foremost, thank you to Mr. Freeberg, not only for patient teachings to a novice staff, but also for your continual reminder of "I can't impress enough how important this is," around deadline time.

Next, I thank, individually, each member of the executive staff. Becky Jones for her layout construction and this book's design; Tim Martin for proofreading and writing mounds of copy; Jerry Lopez for taking countless pictures and putting up with our antics for more; and Jeff Pederson for soliciting an all-time record of businesses and instituting our new sponsor's plan.

To each of the seven section heads I would like to say how relieved I am that you all finished your jobs without too many mishaps or experiences. I am relieved that Fred found sports headlines suitable both to himself and Mr. Freeberg; that Signe and Dale never got into too many blows while fighting for pictures; that Nancy found her Heart Week pictures; that Sue finally got her WAYAKO "mug shot"; that Kris and Grace were able to match the seniors' names with the seniors' pictures.

And finally I would like to thank everyone else who helped with this book's dirty work by writing copy, drawing triplicates, and especially taking pictures. Our entire staff joins me in thanking the Administration and teachers for their cooperation throughout the year.

The Pub won't be quite the same when this group leaves. After all, when we go, so goes our candlelight, welcome mat, and football game. It was a good year for the Pub and a good year for the WAYAKO staff. Thanks to you all.
