

Heart Week

Heart Week took place February 19-23, when the National Honor Society put on a successful program. The activities included the Pancake Breakfast, at which Luke Stemer retained his title as consumer of the most pancakes; the Dress Code was legally broken which forced Mr. Manning with impunity, the seniors again beat the juniors at the tug-o-war, NHS President Jim Wicklatz ducked just in time to miss being hit with a cream pie. The pie went straight hit to Mr. Hadley instead.

The Antics provided music for the dance, at which Jim Wicklatz and CeCe Hanson were crowned King and Queen. The seniors, once again, proved superior by donating the most money to the Heart Fund. All together, about $500 was turned over to the American Cancer Society.

Oh, come on, Luke, it can't be that bad!

N.H.S. PRESIDENT?

Julie Laven, Jim Wicklatz, and LeAnn Schaetzel at Uncle John's.
